Rudesill Family

Wayne, who returned to campus to join his fellow classmates for their Golden Reunion reflected on the wonderful changes that have taken place within the university. He is very proud of the education he and his sons received.

David is employed as a packaging engineer with Trane Company in LaCrosse, Wis. Prior to retirement, Wayne was the manager/part owner of a lumberyard in River Falls; Mark is owner of Rudesill Builders Inc., River Falls and Randy (his wife is Judy McGlaun '81) is the president of Youngblood Lumber Company in Minneapolis.

Oakeson Family

Marie and John are enjoying retirement and spending time with grandchildren. After her graduation from Stout, Marie taught high school prior to raising her family. She returned to the profession on a part time basis, teaching evening classes through the tech college. John began as a teacher, became a principal, moved into the superintendent position and ended his professional career as a CESA consultant for Department of Public Instruction. Kathy and her family reside in Merrillan, Wis. and is busy raising a family and teaching as a substitute when needed.

Lee Family

An entire family of Stout graduates. Howard and Charlotte met in the sixties while pursuing degrees. Both completed their undergraduate degrees in 1968 at Stout State University; Howard in industrial education and Charlotte in family and consumer sciences. One year later, both had completed their master's degrees in industrial education and home economics respectively. Charlotte teaches secondary education for the White Bear School District, and Howard now serves the university as executive director of Stout Solutions.

Twenty-nine years later, the first of their three sons completed his education at UW-Stout. Nathan, who graduated in 1997 in manufacturing engineering, now lives in Golden Valley and is a research and development engineer at Intra Therapeutics Inc. Sheldon completed his studies in 1998 in applied mathematics and is an instructor in the math department at Winona State University. The youngest of their three children, Jonathan, graduated in 2001 with a degree in industrial technology and is employed as an industrial engineer, field operations, for Boeing Company in Everett, Wash.
