Indicator #7: Credits to Degree

UW-Stout makes efficient use of its human, financial, and physical resources in a variety of ways. By encouraging progress toward degree completion, UW-Stout helps ensure efficient use of students’ personal and financial resources and provides space for new students. Credits taken prior to graduation, an indicator of educational resources used by UW-Stout students, are currently below the levels in 1993-94, when the goal to reduce credits to the bachelor’s degree was adopted.

Average Credits Taken by UW-Stout Bachelor’s Degree Recipients

Source: UW-Stout Accountability Report