

CHILD & FAMILY STUDY CENTER INFANT NEWSLETTER

LAST WEEK

Exploring the fall leaves.

Last week we used our senses of touch, taste and smell to explore fall leaves. We had to do it in the muscle room because of the rain but we still had fun! We also explored goop (cornstarch & water) and we tried scribbling with crayons. Our littlest friends are working on strengthening their back muscles and rolling over. We were able to enjoy some walks and see the construction diggers. The musical instruments seem to be one of our favorite toys. We love to shake the shakers!

REMINDERS

- Please bring a snowsuit, hat & mittens as we will be walking if the temp. /wind-chill is above 30.
- Sign Language workshop on Wednesday 25th at 4:30 in the infant room.
- We will be holding conferences the beginning of Nov. Please sign up on the conference sheet if you are interested.

SMILES!!
Marcia

THIS WEEK

This week in our room we will be shedding a few tears. Laura and Abby will be moving on to their next student teaching placement. We wish them well and will miss them very much.

We will be able to express our emotions while we make music with pots and pans. Singing patty cake develops our receptive language skills. Large motor skills will develop as we attempt to pat cakes with play dough. The beach ball hanging from the ceiling will allow us the opportunity to develop eye-hand coordination skills. We are working on signing milk, more, all done, please and ball. We hope that everyone is able to make it to the sign language workshop on Wednesday at 4:30.

Happy first birthday Keedan!!

Home / School Connection

Provide your child with some pots, lids and wooden spoons. Allow him/her to explore them and bang them together.

This will help your child to express the emotions of interest and enjoyment. They will also learn to express their emotions in distinct, meaningful patterns.
