The meet was a record setting meet for the Blue Devils, which in all snapped or tied five school records in the two day event. Verdegan broke her second school record in as many days. One day after setting a new standard for the long jump, she blew apart her own mark - as well as the conference record and the Kolf Sports Center record - for the triple jump, adding more than 18 inches to her previous best from last week. Verdegan won the event with a leap of 40-feet, 4-inches, erasing her previous mark of 38-6.75. Verdegan's distance was an NCAA Division III automatic qualifying mark and broke the conference record of 38-7 set by Tara Harding of UW-Oshkosh in 1995. It also broke the facility record set by Eleena Zhelezov of Brandeis University, who set the mark at the 1994 NCAA Division III national championships. Verdegan was named the field athlete of the meet for her efforts over the two days.

Schachtner finished eighth in the 20-lb weight throw with a toss of 47-3, erasing her top mark from three weeks ago of 46-1.25. Schachtner's throw improves her provisional qualifying distance. Katie Ploog (Fr, Chisago City, Minn) tied the school pole vault record with a jump of 9-4.50, matching the height Andi Schwabenlender set last year. Ploog placed 13th. The 4x200-relay team of Ashley Juleff (Fr, Clear Lake), Sara Manion (So, Big Lake, Minn), Sarah Jenne (Sr, Waunakee), and Kate Werner (So, Elk Mound) also edged out the school record, finishing in a time of 1-minute, 49.99-seconds.
